

How caring is your dentist?

There are several matrices to find how caring is your dental office or dentist but we will show you by comparing lip balms, since the ingredients will eventually end up in your body.

Skaai Lip balm Ingredients

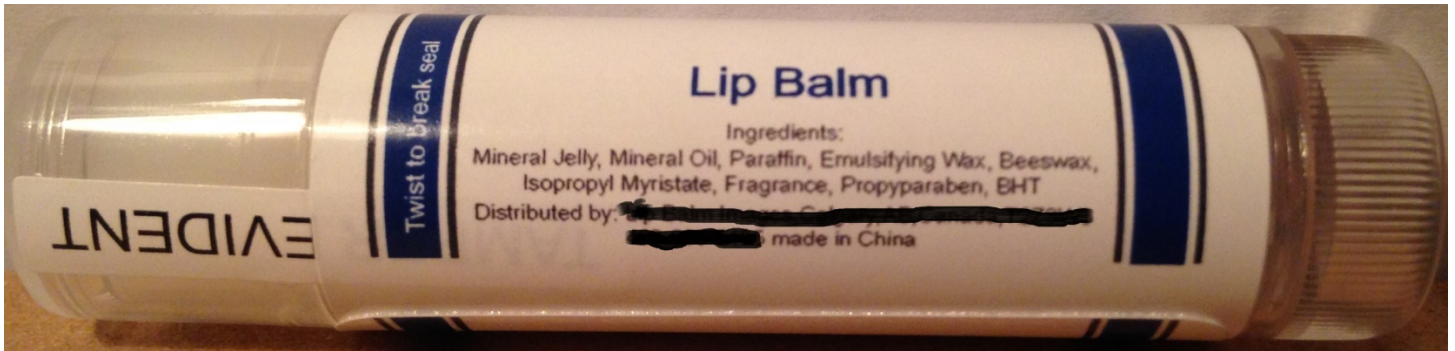

Example 1:

By far the worst we have seen so far. These are imported by a Canadian distributor from USA

The ingredients and warnings are really alarming. This one does not even use real beeswax; also see “skin cancer” and “poison” warnings. We don’t think a caring dental practice would give this to patients.

Example 2:

These are imported from China by a Calgary based distributor (not a manufacturer). They claim of providing products of highest quality and yet their product does not contain a single drop of natural oils or butters. The ingredients are very questionable like petroleum distillates (mineral jelly, mineral oil and paraffin), parabens and BHT (Butylated hydroxytoluene, used as preservative). It has been well established that petroleum distillates, parabens and BHT can cause cancer. Also fragrances or artificial flavors are themselves compounds of tens of chemicals.
